(DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.)

DATES TO OCTOBER 26.

Quebec Dispatch.

QUEBEC, Oct. 25.—The Treasurer of the Province of Quebec has resigned and has been appointed Secretary of State in the Dominion Cabinet.

Appointment of Attorney General for Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—Brewster, former Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, and one of the majority of the Court that decided the election contests in favor of Republican contestants, has been tendered, by Governor Geary, the position of Attorney General, now occupied by Benjamin Harris.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Secretary Boutwell has authorized the payment at once, with the rebate of the interest due November 1st, on both registered and coupon bonds.

The opinion delivered by Chief Justice Chase to-day in the Yerger case, was very elaborate and lengthy. It does not involve the merits of the case or the constitutionality of reconstruction acts, but merely the question of the authority of the Court to issue a writ of habeas corpus under its appellate jurisdiction. The case, on its merits, if the courts shall issue the writ and proceed to a hearing thereon, will present the question as to which power, in the State's present condition, shall exercise jurisdiction, and whether the party charged with crime is amenable to the military or civil laws.

A number of officers have been assigned to duty in connection with registration and the election in Mississippi.

Nashville Dispatch.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 25.—The Legislature to-day postponed the election of Public Printer until November 2d. It is proposed now by Johnson's friends, to run him for the State Convention, and if elected, to make him President of that body.

The Legislature has not yet called a Convention for taking any action on the Fifteenth Amendment.

The first ice of the season formed this morning.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 25.—The Chamber of Commerce passed resolutions this evening to extend aid to the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Heavy Land Slide.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Oct. 25.—There was a land slide near Rondout yesterday. It moved three acres of land a considerable distance, covered Brooks' yard to the depth of six feet and swept away the engine house and engine. The damage is heavy.

Fires in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—A series of fires occurred here Saturday night and Sunday morning. The most serious was the complete destruction of St. Andrews' church and the partial destruction of the Unitarian church and manufactory of Kern & Brothers. The Baptist church was also considerably damaged. The fires are supposed to have been the work of incendiaries. Loss about $150,000.

New York News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Telegram learns that the recent complications in regard to gold speculations, connected with a feeling of personal self-respect pending investigation, have impelled Assistant Treasurer Boutwell to send in his resignation to the Secretary of the Treasury, and a communication to that effect was dispatched to Washington this evening. The Commercial says it hears the General has expressed himself to the effect that as he could not have the thorough and impartial investigation he desired, he preferred to resign, and would forward a letter of resignation immediately. Report also says he has telegraphed to the Secretary of the Treasury to that effect and will forward a formal letter to-night.

It is understood the Grand Jury of the Court of Oyer and Terminer devoted to-day to the investigation of the gold ring transaction.

The evidence thus far taken by the Congressional Committee on Paraguayan outrages are unimportant.

The Erie Railroad strike is ended by the reinstatement of all the displaced men.

Father Hyacinthe will probably not visit Boston. He will go to Washington about the first of November.

John W. Farmer, the originator of the Soup House Charity, in 1857, the year of the great panic when there was such destitution among a portion of the people, died yesterday.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A tank of carbolic acid, at the wood preserving factory of Robbins & Co., South Brooklyn, exploded last evening, instantly killing Martin Voorhees, the patentee of the process.

Investigations of Washburne's difficulties in Paraguay were continued by the sub-Committee of the House on foreign relations at the St. Nicholas Hotel, yesterday. Dr. Darrall, fleet surgeon of the South Atlantic squadron, testified that Rear-Admiral Davis was greatly partial towards Lopez, and guilty of having thrown obstacles in the way. He said Bliss and Masterman were treated as prisoners on board the Guerriere.

The murder of Mrs. Woods at Rondout, by her husband, was a terrible butchery. Woods was a drunkard. He went to his creditors and paid his bills Saturday afternoon, and then wrote intimating that he suspected his wife of infidelity. He was perfectly sober. Shortly after he entered the house, his wife was heard screaming, and a neighbor went to the house, whom Woods admitted. Woods had struck his victim eleven times with a small hatchet four inches long, which was covered with hair, blood, brains and pieces of flesh. Woods then attempted to murder the neighbor, who fled; whereupon Woods cut his own throat from year to year, dying almost instantly. Mrs. Woods was esteemed as an upright, good wife.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The Cuban Junta vehemently assert that the letter relative to the failure of the Lillian expedition, was written in New York. The information it contained was written by a refugee.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Grand Jury examined Jay Gould at great length relative to the late gold speculations. Subpœnas are out for Henry Clews and Col. Frank E. Howe. It is asserted that their testimony would explain the joint transaction in gold made with Gen. Butterfield in the office of Mr. Clews.

Vorhees and Crogan were killed by the explosion of Robbins' wood preserving factory at Brooklyn last night. A man named Trumby was blown thirty feet into the air. A boy named Peck was fatally injured. Both will die. The works had just commenced operations yesterday.

Fatal Accident in Wisconsin.

LACROSSE, Oct. 25.—The boiler of a steam saw mill opposite this city, exploded to-day, mortally injuring three men and several others.

Religious Liberty in Cuba.

HAVANA, Oct. 25.—A decree of Cortes establishing unrestricted liberty of religion in Cuba and Porto Rico, to-day promulgated, will go into effect immediately as the law of the land. One clause of the decree provides that no person be prevented from holding office under the Government by reason of his religious belief. The decree is received with general satisfaction. It is probable a protestant church will be established in this city.

Richmond Dispatch.

RICHMOND, Oct. 26.—The President pardoned Anderson Patterson and Elam, convicted here in 1868 of conspiracy to defraud the revenue, and sent to the Albany penitentiary.

The State Fair, which commences November 2d, will far exceed any fair before the war. Entries from the North are five times as great. The President will be invited to attend.

The State Journal (Radical organ) asserts that Boutwell and the President believe that the Senator elect Johnston has the moral right to the removal of his disabilities, which should not be impaired by undoubted oversight on the part of Congress. Both express the hope that Congress will remove Senator Johnston's disabilities.

Miscellaneous.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—A Washington special says George Butler, one of the editors of Wilkes' Spirit of the Times, was yesterday appointed Consul General to Calcutta.

General Butterfield resigned on the ground that he wanted the charges against him investigated, which could more easily be done when he is not in office. It is reported that A. T. Stewart has been requested to recommend a successor to Butterfield.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The President and Mrs. Grant were here at noon to-day for Philadelphia to attend the wedding of the daughter of Bishop Simpson on Wednesday. They return Thursday or Friday.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 26.—Governor Holden is organizing and arming a company of negroes in this city, which is creating much excitement. It is supposed they will be sent to Orange or Chatham counties to suppress the Ku-Klux.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26.—Rev. Father Lumbias, Secretary of the Jesuits, died yesterday, aged 50.

The Attorney General has obtained judgment for over $1,000 against the State Treasurer for alleged services in the collection of special taxes under the law of 1868.

Jeff Davis has arrived.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 26.—In a quarrel last night in Young American bar room, Weasels, Glare, the noted [illegible] dealer, while carelessly handling a pistol, shot Edward Beninger, the billiard room proprietor, in the head, killing him instantly. Glare was arrested.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Nearly all the papers have obituary notices of the late Earl of Derby.

Henry Layard, the author, is appointed Minister to Spain.

Fears of revolt at Paris on the 26th are diminishing. The Government is taking every precaution against any disturbance of the public peace. Marshal Bazaine has been authorized to use cannon without mercy. It is reported in Paris that a plot concocted by liberals for rising on Thursday has been discovered. The Emperor is concentrating troops in the city, and General Bazaine has received orders that artillery be used if necessary to keep the streets clear. An Imperial manifesto has been prepared and is ready for publication, but the Government awaits events before issuing it. The liberals deny the existence of the reported plot, and to prevent disorder are disposed to postpone the attempt to open the session of the Corps Legislatif to-morrow. The people of Paris are very much excited over the impending crisis.

The Newmarket Houghton meeting commenced to-day. The criterion stakes for two-year olds was won by Hester; Sunlight 2d, King Craft 3d.

MADRID, Oct. 25.—The conviction is growing that in the present state of parties the selection of a King is impossible. The Cortes is as much divided in opinion as the Cabinet, and unless a compromise is effected the establishment of the monarchy will be hopeless. The Deputies to the Cortes from Porto Rico have petitioned the Government to refrain from special legislation for that colony for the present. Three principal parties in the Cortes have each appointed seven Deputies to hold a conference and endeavor to come to some agreement in regard to the selection of a King.

There was a disturbance at Barbastro, Arragon, yesterday. Cries were given for the Republicans, and other seditious demonstrations were made. The outbreak was inconsiderable and easily suppressed. The town is now tranquil.

Most of the journals of London publish obituary notices of Earl Derby. The Times says no one can be a statesman without a statesmanlike temperament. With this Earl Derby was never endowed. He was too impulsive to resist the temptation of making sallies on enemies, both in and out of session. His sneer at the Italian struggle will ever be remembered as proof of his restlessness in speaking of foreign affairs. The Duke of Wellington bequeathed him his influence in the House of Lords, but the bequest could not be executed. The mantle of the Duke's soldier-like virtues had not descended on his successor. Great as was his ascendancy among the conservative peers, he never gained the confidence of his countrymen.

The Telegraph points to the fact that Lord Derby employed his latest breath in public to declaim, with all the solemnity of an oracle fallen from the world, against a measure of justice and necessity like the Irish Church bill, and it adds that this shows how much the age and country had gone beyond him.

The Standard predicts that while the present generation lives, Lord Derby will be remembered throughout his own province not only as an orator, scholar and statesman, of whom Lancashire may well be proud, but as a man who in the worst trials took his place as leader in the work of relief and charity, as a man who cared for the sorrows of the poor, and as a great man who respected the pride of the lowly, not as Premier of England but as a neighbor, generous friend and Christian gentleman. It says Lord Derby was not a great statesman but was a great politician. Personally he will hold a place in the history of England, not for what he did, still less for what he failed to do; but for what he was. He was the latest, not the least, perfect example of the property aristocratic politician. When he censured dissent principles he did so under influences strongly felt, if erroneously interpreted, of obligations to his sovereign and his political orders.

The Marquis of Salisbury will succeed the late Earl Derby as Chancellor of the University of Oxford.

The partial settlement of the tariff question has improved the Sheffield trade with the United States.

DUBLIN, Oct. 25.—An amnesty meeting has been held by the citizens of Cork and the parish of Carrigaline. Gladstone was denounced for his refusal to pardon the Fenians. The resolutions adopted declare that the Irish people will accept no legislative measures for Ireland until the prisoners are pardoned.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 25.—The Sultan will embark on the 12th for Suez.

TRIESTE, Oct. 25.—During the insurrection at Cattaro the rebels gained possession of the fort through treason and then massacred the garrison. Their attacks on the other parts of the city were repulsed.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—The Emperor arrived at the Tuilleries to-day.

The Prefect of Police has issued a proclamation informing the people that in view of the proceedings expected on the 26th, in which occurrences are likely to take place to disturb the public peace, measures will be taken to insure respect for law and maintain tranquility. Good citizens are requested to be on their guard against imprudent curiosity and not expose themselves to consequences that may result from the enforcement of the law against the mob.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—The prize fight between Cannon and Riley, came off on the Marin county shore yesterday. Detective Clarke and a posse of officers went with the party to stop the fight, but were not allowed to land by them. The principals fought 52 rounds, when the fight was stopped on account of darkness and declared a draw.

Geo. Miller, Ah Sing and Ah Chee arrived on the Sacramento boat last night en route for San Quentin.

H. Hamil was arrested yesterday by officer Fouren on the complaint of Dennis Feely, on a charge of threats to kill.

An unknown man was badly injured yesterday at one of the wharves by a falling bar of iron.

Alf. E. Olsen was arrested in the act of committing burglary last night.

This morning one of the centre fugals at the Golden Gate Sugar Refinery gave way while under full speed and seriously injured Rawleys, McDavy, Ross and Quinn. The latter is in a critical state, both legs being broken.

FROM THE NORTH.

VICTORIA, Oct. 26.—On Sunday night a fire occurred in Keyser's cigar and tobacco store. The steam and hand engines were quickly brought into service, and in a few minutes the fire was extinguished. The loss to the building was slight. It was not insured. The stock was insured for $3,500. Origin of the fire unknown.

The schooner Alert arrived from the northwest coast yesterday. She reports the Indians peaceable and quiet, and brings a full cargo of oil.

Dahomey.

THE INTERIOR ECONOMY OF A SAVAGE KINGDOM.

Dahomey is a great military monarchy of Western Africa. Small in itself, it becomes terrible by its entire devotion to works of conquest and slaughter. It is a huge association of human tigers. The whole population of this formidable State is said to be only 200,000, of which no more than 20,000 are free. But probably no kingdom in the world possesses so large an army in proportion to its numbers. The military force of Dahomey consists of 5,000 men and 9,000 women; and of this force the most savage and ferocious portion is that of

THE WOMEN.

These female soldiers are all armed with long Danish muskets, and short swords and clubs. Their appearance on one of the grand parade days is described as very striking. The regiments, on entering the square, take up different positions, where they seat themselves on the ground, waiting to be summoned to the King's presence. Each regiment, on being commanded to advance, forms in irregular column, and the officers, who are distinguished by coral necklaces and superior dresses, advance before the troops, and boast and utter many protestations of valor, such as: "We are men, and not women; we will conquer or die." They also declare where they wish the torrent of war to be next directed. At the review of 1850, Abbeokuta was thus pointed out: "Give us Abbeokuta! Attahpham is destroyed, give us Abbeokuta! As grass is cut down to clear the road, so will we cut off the Abbeokuthns." "The King has great pride in his army and often turned to us," says Mr. Forbes, "as the amazons went through their evolutions, he is proud of these female guards, who in every way rival the males." War is the main resource of the Dahomeans.

THE KING'S EXCHEQUER

Is furnished by the produce of slaves captured on these warlike expeditions. The soldiers are clothed and fed at the expense of the King and the Chiefs; but they receive no pay, except as a reward for the prisoners they capture or the skulls they bring home. The great annual feast of Dahomey consists of too many ceremonies to be here described. A single scene is given.

THE HUMAN SACRIFICE.

A large platform is erected in the center of the market-place. It is decorated with tents and banners, and the King takes his place in the center. A large distribution of cowries, tobacco and other gifts is made by the King to the waiting multitude. Then are brought forward the victims. On the occasion when Mr. Forbes was present fourteen unfortunate prisoners, Attahpahms, were thus produced. The prisoners were lashed hand and foot, and tied in small canoes and baskets, dressed in clean white dresses, with high red caps, and were borne above the heads of the people to the platform. They met the gaze of their murderers with a coolness that was truly astonishing. Ten of these human offerings, with an alligator and a cat, were guarded by male soldiers; the other four by amazons. Three or four of these poor victims were ransomed by Mr. Forbes and Mr. Beecroft, but the rest could not be saved. Immediately under the royal stand stood seven or eight fell ruffians, armed with clubs and swords, grinning horribly. The victims were held high in the air, and the King made a speech telling his people that of his prisoners he gave a portion to them, as his father had done. The first was then lowered and stripped of his clothes, and the foot of the basket placed on the parapet. The King then lifted the other end and the poor creature was thrown forward. Before he could well have reached the ground, clubs and swords from all sides had done their work, and the body was dragged to a pit at some distance, where it was left for birds and beasts of prey. And some of the assistants in this brutal massacre were women.

WEDNESDAY MORNING OCTOBER 27 1869

Where the Danger of Cheap Labor Comes From

There are some among us who express fears lest Chinese labor may effect a general reduction of wages on the Pacific slope. But the greatest danger in this regard is not to be feared from Chinese labor. It is the competition of white labor at the East which the Pacific railroad is bringing upon us and which will steadily increase as we obtain more and better facilities for communication with the East that is destined beyond all question to bring down wages in many branches of industry here. The cheaper labor of our white brethren in the Eastern States which is now for the first time beginning to enter into competition with the labor of the Pacific States will do more to reduce wages here than will ever be effected by the Chinese, even if the number of those people now here should be increased ten or fifty fold. The competition of Eastern capital will produce a similar result on capital here—that is, the rates of interest must also come down, or the industries of the Pacific States will be checked, or perhaps brought to a stand. Unless we make up our minds to accept these changes the East will do all our manufacturing, and our own people will find scanty employment. We are not now making an argument for the reduction of either interest or wages, we are simply pointing out the tendency of things. No person who attentively considers the matter can force away the conviction that these changes are certain to come. We have now one railroad across the continent. That railroad has already practically demoralized the industry and trade of California. Why? Because it has let in the cheaper labor and cheaper capital of the older States to compete with, or rather to annihilate, Californian capital and industry. A similar result would be witnessed in Oregon had the railroad reached us also. But in a few years we are going to have railroad connection with the East. The Northern Pacific is certainly coming, and perhaps other connections will be made. What will happen then? The equalizing or leveling process will begin at once, and it will continue until our industries of all descriptions are placed nearly on a basis with those of the East. Is not this a very apparent fact? Is there any wisdom in attempting to ignore it or to blink it out of sight? We see this operation going on in California now. Articles of all descriptions which have heretofore been produced or manufactured in that State are coming in by railroad, and underselling Californian productions. The farmers find themselves in competition with the cheaper eggs, butter and bacon of the East, the makers of wagons, plows, machinery and furniture, find themselves undersold by Eastern importations, and are forced to shut up their shops, the merchants are met in their own markets by goods which are offered at lower rates than those at which they can afford to sell. We call the attention of those who are making such a pother about Chinese labor to the fact that Chinese labor has nothing to do with bringing about these results. They spring from competition of white labor and cheaper capital of the East, with our own higher-priced labor and capital. The labor of the comparatively few Asiatics on the Pacific slope amounts to so little that its effect in reducing wages, is scarcely appreciable, and those who would effectually protect the workingmen of these States against lower wages must organize to beat back the influence of the lower wages and cheaper capital of the Atlantic slope. And not only this, but they must resolve not to allow any more white laborers to come from the East or from Europe, for if they come in large numbers the result will surely be a reduction of wages to the rates paid in Massachusetts and New York. As a general rule, wages in the Pacific States are at least fifty per cent. higher than east of the Mississippi, in fact the Chinese here are paid as much as white laborers there. Now when it is considered that we are to be brought into very close relations with the East, it will be seen at once that the greatest danger of a large and permanent reduction of wages comes from that quarter. We commend these considerations to those who are organizing societies for the protection of our workingmen, and leave it to their wisdom to devise what is to be done. There is evidently no time to lose, if successful resistance is to be made to the encroachments of the cheaper labor of the Atlantic States and of Europe. Let us not deceive ourselves. Let us no longer look in the wrong direction for the approaching danger. Wages in the Pacific States are to be reduced, not by a yellow race coming east across the Pacific ocean, but by white people coming west across the American continent. The question is, how shall we protect ourselves? Shall we organize to repel the danger?

A Cabal of Treachery

From Olympia we hear that the bolters and disorganizers of the Federal clique who have been trying for several months to weaken and overthrow the Republican party of Washington Territory, are still at their treacherous work,—evincing, if possible, more shamelessness and malignancy than ever. With the abjuration of party fealty they seem also to have renounced truth and honor, and for the sake of gratifying their resentments are ready to do anything their Copperhead allies may require. They are constantly in consultation with the Democrats, both in and out of the Legislature, trying to devise ways to weaken and break the Republican ranks, so as to throw the Territory into Democratic hands. It would be difficult to guess what the Republicans over there have done, that such a base set of political marauders should be placed in positions where they could do them so much harm. The whole of this set from Flanders to Ritz haven't so much grace as would serve as a prologue to an egg and butter, or they would abandon positions in which they have wronged the whole Republican party of the Territory and scandalized the honest and true Republican administration of President Grant. We are much mistaken if a day of reckoning do not come up on them and that speedily. When the props that sustain such factitious greatness as that of Flanders and his set are torn away such political varlets will quickly sink back to the ignoble condition from which lucky circumstances—lucky for them but untoward for the people—have raised them.

The Madison (Wisconsin) Journal publishes an able letter from its old editor Horace Rublee, now Minister to Switzerland, strongly deprecating all such schemes of quasi repudiation as withholding interest on United States securities as most ruinous to the American credit abroad, and is likely to cost the country far more than the amount thus secured, to say nothing of its violation of faith.

In General

We publish to-day a portion of Mr Greeley's letter accepting a nomination on the Republican ticket of New York. The spirit he evinces in taking a nomination which [illegible] to him begging for acceptance does him credit. His letter will add to the respect in which he is held by men of both parties and will strengthen him in the position he has a long time held that of a disinterested leader of political sentiment.

The Democratic papers continue to be filled with dreadful predictions of all sorts of woes which they will have it are about to overtake the country. These sorry tales are getting a trifle stale. For eight years the Democratic leaders have been a set of political hypochondriacs. They have always looked on the dark side and asserted that the country was on the down grade to perdition but it persists in prospering in spite of them.

The New York Herald holds that it is within the constitutional power of the General Government to take control of both the telegraph and railroad systems of the country and that it is the duty of the Government to do it. The Sacramento Union answers the objection that such a proceeding would centralize the Government too much by saying that the party in power would always be held to a just account of its doings by a strong party not in power but hoping and expecting to be through promises of reform. There is much force in this observation.

We expected the Democratic press would take Andy Johnson's defeat to heart. Therefore we were not at all disappointed at finding in the Herald of yesterday some tristful exclamations on the subject. That paper had fondly hoped that the Ex-President would be sent among his would-be impeachers to expose their crimes against liberty, and check their depredations on the Constitution. But this hope has been blasted by Union League bribery and corruption. Alas for the integrity of the Democratic Legislature of Tennessee! There are not more than half a dozen Republicans in that body, yet "Union League bribery" has prevailed! It's mournful to see how readily the sturdy Democracy sell their dearest principles for "Radical" gold.

The New York Times justly observes that one of the happy results of the successful completion of the Pacific Railway across this continent has been the opening up of a new country to foreign travel. Europe and some portions of Asia and Africa have been thoroughly explored by the intelligent inquiring and educated of foreign tourists, but the length of the ocean passage, the illimitable extent of country to be traversed, and, above all, the uncertainty of the expense, the accommodations, and the necessaries of preparation, have hitherto deterred all but the most daring from venturing on the vast countries of the West. Among the many blessings conferred by increased means of intercommunication between nations by telegraphs steamboats and railways, none is so important as the removal of barriers to good mutual understanding.

The editor of the Herald yesterday for about the thousandth time, made the utterly foolish assertion that "the party which elevated Grant propose to flood the West with a hundred million heathen slaves." This poor parrotry appears to be the utmost intellectual effort of which that paper is capable. For months it has been repeating it over and over, as if it supposed that so wise a saying would challenge the attention and applause of the whole country. "The party that elevated Grant" don't propose to introduce a single "heathen slave" from Asia. It simply propose to let the Chinaman alone. A sufficient answer to the Chinese-fearing Herald is found in the fact that while its party controlled the Government the average number of Chinese arrivals each year was over 8,000, while these arrivals since the Republicans came into power, have averaged but 3,000 a year.

THE WEST

1,250,000 eggs from Chicago have reached San Francisco by the railroad, and have been sold at 50 cents per dozen.

The regular tariff on freight by the California and Oregon railroad, from San Francisco to Marysville, is $4 per ton.

A scrub race recently took place at Helena (Montana) between two Cayuses, on which more than $15,000 changed hands.

The Statesman says that wheat has been run up to four cents a pound at Boise City but the indications are that it must come down.

The delinquent tax of Ada county (Boise City) Idaho, this year is six thousand dollars. The Statesman thinks this a favorable showing.

Coal is now mined near Deer Lodge and delivered at Helena as low as $15 per ton. The bed of coal is nine feet thick and of a good quality.

Near Helena (Montana) a $1,000 nugget was taken out of the claim of Marks, Cooper & Co September 29th, when the owners were about to abandon their ground. They now propose to stop with it awhile longer.

The San Francisco Times says the business of wagon making in California has been crushed by Eastern competition. Two horse wagons of California manufacture have sold heretofore at $225 to $250. As good a wagon of Eastern manufacture sells at $160.

The Mullan road in several places is being improved. Changes are also being made in several places, and one of the steepest hills on the road in the main Rocky mountain range, is entirely avoided by turning a short distance through a very low pass where water is now brought from the Atlantic to the Pacific slope.

In an editorial on "Indian matters" the Montana Herald urges the prohibition of the Western Slope tribes of Indians crossing the range on any pretext whatever, and says "The Western Slope tribes should be warned to return home at once and prohibited from again passing through our settlements to the East or West, North or South."

The remains of Anthony Kunkle who shot and killed Miss Annie Wagner at San Francisco because she declined to marry him and then blew his own brains out have been buried in the public plot at Laurel Hill Cemetery. No friend or relative followed the corpse to the last resting place and the dirge of the sexton [illegible] them in was only heard by the hearse driver and an enterprising reporter in search of a sensation ghost story in the city of the dead.

At the Montana Territorial Fair the judges awarded the first premium for the richest silver bearing quartz specimens from the [illegible] Day lode situated in the Moose Creek district near Highland Deer Lodge county. The owners are S C Day and E S Harvey. Its lead has been sunk on about 100 feet and more of the picked rock has yielded by the working process as high as $1 to the pound $2,000 to the ton. One hundred tons of average rock from this ledge was sold for $10,000.

A patent has recently been granted for a method of refreshing horses while in harness, which consists in making the bit hollow, and having perforations in it. A rubber tube extends from one side of the bit to the carriage and by pressing a rubber bag which contains water the driver is enabled to refresh his horse whenever he chooses without stopping. For saddle horses the water bag is suspended from the horse's neck or to the pommel of the saddle.

While the world is waiting for Mr William Cullen Bryant's translation of the Iliad to be published by a Boston firm, the New York house of G P Putnam & Son have issued the veteran editor and poet's Letters from the East.

Sir Henry Holland, now travelling in this country with Hon Wm M Evarts, is eighty two years old and has been in his day the consulting physician to Napoleon [illegible] private physician to Lord Byron, Moore, Madame de Stael and many other notables long gone to rest.

Some one has been going carefully over the expenses of royal families in Europe. It is found that in the aggregate the people of Europe pay about forty millions of dollars a year for the support of royalty. The most expensive of the monarchies is that of Russia which costs $8,500,000.

Giorgiani, a San Francisco fruit dealer sent forward $2,000 worth of grapes and pears to Chicago, which upon their arrival in the latter city were so much damaged that the Board of Health had them all carried out of the city and destroyed. This was the last straw that broke the much talked of California fruit trade.

P H Toohy editor of the St Louis Journal of Commerce lately dropped from a propeller's deck into Lake Huron in a fit of insanity bred of disease. A singular fact connected with his death is that on the night of its occurrence a porter employed in the Journal building in St Louis saw in a dream Mr Toohy's corpse and awoke to find his wife in frightened distress at the same vision.

The habit of pronouncing Lord Byron's name with an accent on the first syllable and with the long sound of the y is universal, but the Pall Mall Gazette calls attention to the fact that after Byron left school the pronunciation was different. It followed the French origin of the name and was spoken as if spelled Birron. Some of his old schoolfellows one at least of whom is still living always pronounced the name in that manner.

A FAVORABLE NOTORIETY. The good reputation and extended use of Brown's Bronchial Troches for Coughs and Throat Diseases has caused the Troches to be extensively imitated. Obtain only the genuine Brown's Bronchial Troches and do not be [illegible] by those who [illegible] by selling [illegible]

THE FIRST RAIL LAID. The first railroad ir[on] [illegible] of the East Side Road were spiked down yesterd[ay] [illegible] at East Portland. At about nine o[illegible] steamer Moses Taylor having on board two [illegible] railroad materials left her dock on this side an[d] [illegible] across to the terminus, her starting being a[nnounced] by the firing of a cannon on the east bank. [illegible] ment was the signal for a general flocking of [illegible] ward the ferry boat [illegible] intent upon seein[g] spike driven. The plan for having effected [illegible] [illegible] and placed on the ti[es] [illegible] the first rail was [illegible] spiked down, the [illegible] signalled [illegible] the firing of the [illegible] In scarcely more than half an hour the track [illegible] down from the edge of the wharf to [illegible] where the turn table is to be planted and a [illegible] placed upon it. The track constructed is about [illegible] dred and fifty feet long and is designed to be [illegible] trucking out the material to the turn-table [illegible] line. There were no ceremonies other than the [illegible] [illegible] to work in a business [illegible] [illegible] as soon as [illegible] had been [illegible] the men began to trundle [illegible] rails as they were put ashore from the ship an[d] [illegible] on either side of the roadway. A co[nsiderable] number of people were present to witness the [illegible] and many stayed for hours looking on as if [illegible] [illegible] It is understood that [illegible] will be completed this week and that [illegible] work of track laying will proceed.

REMARKABLE DISCOVERY. The Herald has jus[t] [illegible] through a private source some interesting inf[ormation] that it would be impossible to obtain from the [illegible] reports and general newspaper articles of San F[rancisco] [illegible] One of the principal items of [illegible] [illegible] flour has long ranked first in New York [illegible] ing the California article out of all pastry cook [illegible] the bread bakeries [illegible] in the Bay city. [illegible] [illegible] compelled to acknowledge the fact whe[n] [illegible] them. They lay the blame on [illegible] [illegible] California and to save their reputati[on] [illegible] at this late day when it can't be helped what [illegible] announced a year ago and that is that Oreg[on] [illegible] the best in the world. This [illegible] development if it wasn't for the fact that [illegible] generally [illegible] men who are up with [illegible] knew months ago all that there is in this [illegible] received through a private source. The fact [illegible] [illegible] months ago that Ore[gon] [illegible] ranked in the San Francisco market along with [illegible] crack brands, and then again that Oregon "Com[mon]" was [illegible] higher than San Francisco "Cit[y]" and still again that Oregon extras were quote[d] higher than any California brand and then ag[ain] particular newspapers so reported in their c[olumns] [illegible] We advise the Herald editor to subs[cribe] and read the OREGONIAN and so keep posted.

BRIEFS.—From the Statesman of yesterday

Coyotes are killing sheep in the hill districts o[f] [illegible] county

The Medical School will open for the winter te[rm] [illegible] an address by Dr Payton Thursday evening, [illegible] the 4th. The prospects are that a larger class w[ill] [illegible] than ever before. Some students are expected fr[om] [illegible] and northern Territories

Rev Gustavus Hines left last week with his [illegible] Dalles City where he is stationed for the year [illegible]

Mrs Pettijohn mother of Lewis and William [illegible] an old lady aged nearly 90 years, arrived [illegible] by stage overland from Colorado intending to s[pend] [illegible] remainder of her days with her sons in Oregon.

Mr Shurtleff, wife and family left us on Mo[nday] [illegible] San Francisco and the East. Mr S. will re[turn] [illegible] Washington during most of the winter, after [illegible] [illegible] Mrs S we learn is one of [illegible] to the estate of General Lewis Cass, who w[illegible] wealthy and died childless

MARRIAGE. Mr A B Elfelt formerly a well [illegible] merchant of this city was recently married in P[hiladel]phia, with Miss Esther Auch. The wedding, a[s] [illegible] the Sunday Mercury, was of such elegance [illegible] [illegible] sensation in the fashionable world [illegible] The wedding presents as we[ll] [illegible] of the beautiful bride, were the handso[mest] [illegible] seen for many a year. In this city they ha[ve] [illegible] and exquisiteness and is exquisi[te] [illegible] on the part of the donor. By Mr Joseph El[felt] brother of the groom, who came on from San Fr[ancisco] to be present at the wedding, was presented a s[illegible] silver plate in fac simile of the celebrated "M[illegible]" conceded to be the most elaborate yet produ[ced] [illegible] cost was $7,000. The original set was worked in [illegible] at Caldwell's store in this city. The array [illegible] jewels, pearls, and other gems was such as [illegible] only on very rare occasions, in private hand[s] [illegible] happy pair are now on their way to Europe

NOISY BOYS AT THE THEATER.—Almost every [illegible] there are troops of boys hanging about the en[trance] [illegible] the Theater who make themselves [illegible] [illegible] by importuning those who go in to take the[m] or those who come out for checks. If they wo[uld] remain at the entrance and do no more than [illegible] checks etc the [illegible] might be tolerated; [illegible] one after another to get inside and th[illegible] [illegible] become a most infernal [illegible] Betwe[en] [illegible] they occupy themselves in stamping, whistli[ng] [illegible] howling, till every person inside of [illegible] blood gets nervous and begins to [illegible] [illegible] It were better to leave the boys [illegible] carnival, or wring their infernal necks and th[illegible] care quiet. Most people go to a play for a qui[et] [illegible] enjoyment but if these boys are perm[itted] [illegible] such a bobbery every ev[ening] [illegible] most pe[ople] [illegible] give up the theatre and find their quiet enterta[inment] somewhere else.

BRIEF MENTION.—The average tem[perature] [illegible] the 15 days [illegible] with bright [illegible] [illegible] climate.

There was an unusual number of [illegible] [illegible] last evening

The people of the interior are troubled also wit[h] [illegible] growlers and thieves. Several cases of [illegible] are recently reported

A PRACTICAL ANTI-COOLIE ADVOCATE.—We hear [illegible] good one on the newly elected Secretary of the W[hite] [illegible] Association. A few days since, before [illegible] to be Secretary of the white man's anti[illegible] [illegible] but after he had identified hi[mself] [illegible] he and a few friends were talking the [illegible] when much to the confusion of the white man [illegible] and the amusement of the others, a Chinam[an] [illegible] along with a pile of shirts and such, which he [illegible] washing for the Secretary. Further conversati[on] [illegible] subject of Anti-Coolieism was immediately rule[d] [illegible] order; but candor compels us to say that there w[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] then and there.

AN EVENT. The landing of the Moses Taylor [illegible] Portland yesterday was a great event in the h[istory] [illegible] that burg. She was the first ocean st[eamer] [illegible] landed there but we trust not the last, by a [illegible] It is now demonstrated that [illegible] of [illegible] can land there safely and when the whole [illegible] the river shall be covered with towns [illegible] and the old Portland shall be only a suburb of t[illegible] city on the Wallamet [illegible] East Portlanders [illegible] [illegible] doubtless many a stea[mer] [illegible] will land there—just to be obliging

AMUSEMENTS. At Oro Fino Theater last evenin[g] was a good house at the first representation of the [illegible] drama of "The Streets of New York," wh[ich] [illegible] mounted and very effectively [illegible] will be played again to-night

THE FIRST RAIL LAID.—The first rail laid in the Walamet valley has been commenced. The first rails of the East Side Road were spiked down yesterday noon at East Portland. At about [illegible] o'clock the steamer Moses Taylor having [illegible] hundred tons railroad material left her dock [illegible] this side and steamed across to the terminus, her starting being announced by the firing of a cannon on the east bank. The move was the signal for a general flocking of people toward the ferry boat, each one intent upon seeing the first spike driven. The steamer having effected a landing the first rail was lifted out and placed on the timbers at ten o'clock, and immediately spiked down, the event being signalled by the firing of the cannon. In scarcely more than half an hour the track was laid down from the outer edge of the wharf to the point where the turn-table is to be planted and a track car placed upon it. The track constructed is about one hundred and fifty feet long and is designed to be used for trucking out the material to the turn table and landing. There were no ceremonies other than the firing. The road was begun in a business way with coats off and sleeves rolled up. As soon as the track had been constructed the most elegant truck of the rails as they were put ashore from the ship and to stack them up on either side of the roadway. A considerable number of people were present to witness the beginning and many stayed for hours looking on as if fascinated by some enchantment. It is understood that the turn table will be completed this week and that then the work of track-laying will proceed.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.—The Herald has just received through a private source so interesting information that it would be impossible to obtain from the market reports and general newspaper articles of San Francisco. One of the principal items of information is that Oregon flour has long ranked first in New York as a brand, and the California article out of all pastry cook shops and the bread bakeries even in the Bay city. Millers there are compelled to acknowledge the fact which is [illegible] straight at them. They lay the blame on the inferior wheat of California, and to save their reputation unless at this late day when it cannot be helped what New York announced a year ago and that is that Oregon wheat is the best in the world. This [illegible] king [illegible] argument if it were not for the fact that [illegible] generally, and other men who are up with the times knew months ago all that there is in this information obtained through a private source. The fact was published in the OREGONIAN months ago that Oregon flour ranked in the San Francisco market along with California crack brands; and then again that Oregon Commercial was 25 cents higher than San Francisco City Mills; and still again that Oregon extras were quoted 25 cents higher than any California brand and then again that particular newspapers so reported in their commercial articles. We advise the Herald editor to subscribe for and read the OREGONIAN, and so keep posted.

SALEM.—From the Statesman of yesterday:

Coyotes are killing sheep in the hill districts of Marion county.

The Normal School will open for the winter term with [illegible] by Dr Payton Thursday evening November 4th. The prospects are that a larger class will enter than ever before. Some students are expected from California and Northern Territories.

Mrs. Pettyjohn, mother of Lewis and William Pettyjohn, an old lady aged nearly 90 years, arrived Saturday by stage overland from Colorado, intending to spend the remainder of her days with her sons in Oregon.

Mr. Stratford, wife and family left us on Monday for San Francisco and the East. Mr S. will remain in Washington during most of the winter attending to [illegible] matters. Mrs S. we learn is one of the heirs to the estate of General Lewis Cass, who was very [illegible] and died childless.

MARRIED.—Mr A. B. Elfelt formerly a well known [illegible] of this city was recently married in Philadelphia, with Miss Esther Asch. The wedding, according to the Sunday Mercury, was of such elegance and cost as to create a sensation in the fashionable world of that city. It says: "The wedding presents as well as the [illegible] of the beautiful bride, were the hardest test we have [illegible] for many a year. In this city they have never [illegible] in expensiveness and in exquisiteness of [illegible] on the part of the donor. By Mr Joseph Elfelt, the brother of the groom, who came on from San Francisco [illegible] that the wedding, was presented a service of silver plate in fac simile of the celebrated "Morehead [illegible]" to be the most elaborate yet produced. Its cost was $7,500. The original set was melted in the late [illegible] Caldwell's store in this city. The array of diamonds, pearls, and others gems was such as are seen only on very rare occasions, in private hands. The bridal pair are now on their way to Europe.

BOYS AT THE THEATER.—Almost every night there are troops of boys, hanging about the entrance to the [illegible], who make themselves excessively disagreeable by importuning those who go in to take them along or those who come out for checks. If they would only sit at the entrance and do no more than beg for checks, etc., the nuisance might be tolerated, but they go one after another, to get inside and then they [illegible] a most infernal nuisance. Between acts, they busy themselves in stamping, whistling, and hooting, till every person made of flesh and blood gets nervous and begins to discuss, mentally, whether it were better to leave the boys to their mischief or wring their infernal necks and thus produce quiet. Most people go to a play for a quiet evening's enjoyment; but if these boys are permitted to make such a hullabaloo, every evening, most people will give up the theatre and find their quiet entertainments elsewhere.

BRIEF MENTION.—The average temperature, yesterday, [illegible], with bright beautiful sunshine. Horses [illegible].

There was an unusual number of passengers by the Salem boat last evening.

The bark Cambridge has completed the discharge of her cargo at the steamship dock.

The Front street Nicolson pavement will be completed [illegible] street in a day or two.

The water of the Wallamet river is still falling.

Mr J. B. Robinson, formerly a member of the Bates [illegible], is in town, en route from San Francisco to his [illegible] Grand Ronde.

[illegible] of the interior are troubled also with night [illegible] and thieves. Several cases of housebreaking [illegible] reported.

[illegible] ANTI-COOLIE ADVOCATE.—We hear a pretty [illegible] on the newly elected Secretary of the Working [illegible] Association. A few days since, before he was [illegible] to be Secretary of the white man's anti Chinese [illegible], but after he had identified himself with the [illegible], he and a few friends were talking the matter over [illegible] much to the confusion of the white man's friend [illegible] amusement of the others, a Chinaman came along with a pile of shirts and such, which he had been [illegible] for the Secretary. Further conversation on the [illegible] of anti-Cooliism was immediately ruled out of order; but candor compels us to say that there was some [illegible] then and there.

AN EVENT.—The landing of the Moses Taylor at East Portland, yesterday, was a great event in the history of this burg. She was the first ocean steamer that ever [illegible] there, but we trust not the last by a long list. [illegible] demonstrated that vessels of considerable draft [illegible] there safely, and when the whole east side of the river shall be covered with immense brick blocks (!) and the old Portland shall be only a suburb of the great city on the Wallamet (?) as East Portlanders devoutly believe to be her destiny (?) doubtless many a steamer and [illegible] will land there—just to be obliging.

[illegible].—At Oro Fino Theater last evening, there was a good house, at the first representation of the sensational drama of "The Streets of New York," which was [illegible] mounted and very effectively presented. It will be played again to-night.

The Great World Circus was well patronized and the [illegible] was treated to a very good bill. Prof. Maxim[illegible] performed his rope untying feat, clearing himself in half a minute after being tied in a complicated [illegible] of knots. Another performance to-night, when Maximilian will hang himself.

MUSIC ON THE PLAZA.—Our citizens who have music in their souls will be delighted to learn that by orders the Infantry Band now stationed at this city will play pro [illegible] to-day, twice a week in the public Plaza, commencing to-day. The days for music will be Wednesdays and [illegible] and the time from two till three o'clock P. M. The city will probably erect a suitable platform for the [illegible] and place seats conveniently around for the [illegible] of those who may wish to enjoy these [illegible] concerts. If this arrangement be carried out, the Plaza will become a pleasant resort.

THE GREAT WORLD CIRCUS.—We call special attention to the entertainment to be given at the pavilion this [illegible]. The novelties which have been recently added to the previously attractive programme should secure a crowded house. Mr. Wilson has been untiring in his efforts to afford the best entertainment of its kind that has ever visited Oregon and his success has been fully attested by the large audiences which have greeted [illegible] nightly.

PASSENGERS FOR VICTORIA.—The steamship Gussie Telfair sailed at six o'clock last evening for Victoria. The following is a list of her passengers: Geo Good, William Fisher, G T Robinson, Prof. Morey and wife, Mrs Oglesby and daughter, Mrs Wm Cree, Miss Ellen T Failing, Wm Greene, Wm Lester, A [illegible] T Helms, Frank Th[illegible]rp, Mrs Fisk, Mr Scott, C B Elliot.

NOT SO.—The Commercial states that the first rail of the East side road was spiked down by the President of the company, I. R. Moores. This is a mistake, as we know. The first spike was driven by one of the employees, Tim Stapleton, who was a track layer on the Central Pacific railroad.

PERSONAL.—Gov. Woods and Hon. [illegible] arrived at this city yesterday afternoon from Salem by private conveyance. The former is going to the Dalles this morning, and the latter will start for home this evening.

RETURNING FROM THE STATES.—Information has been received in this city that Mr. J. N. Dolph and family, who have been for some months on a visit to the East started home on Monday by the Pacific railroad.

SOCIABLE.—The ladies of the Presbyterian Church will have a sociable at the basement of the Church this evening, to which all friends are invited. Ice cream and other refreshments in abundance.

CALIFORNIA STEAMER MAILS.—The mail for California per steamer Moses Taylor will close at a quarter past 4 o'clock to-morrow—forty five minutes prior to the hour of sailing.

ANNUAL BALL.—The Emmet Guard will give their regular annual ball on Thanksgiving evening, November 18th.

FOR THE SOUND AND VICTORIA.—Hon. [illegible] S. Wright [illegible] and [illegible] with Sound and Victoria on Saturday next at 6 o'clock A M.

SAILING POSTPONED.—The Moses Taylor will not leave to-day as had been expected. She will not get off till few to morrow evening at [illegible] o'clock.

[illegible].—The bark Aerline Elwood has about completed her cargo of wheat for Liverpool and will sail in a few days.

BASE BALL PRACTICE.—The [illegible] will meet at [illegible] [illegible].

Horace Greeley a Candidate

Horace Greeley has written an admirable letter accepting the nomination for the Comptrollership of New York. We print the paragraphs from this characteristic document:

This is the off year [illegible]. Men whose patriotism hardly suffices to take them to the polls when a President or when at least a Governor and members of Congress are to be chosen will not come at his call. The great army of disappointed office seekers and self-aspirants to live on the public will also contribute vastly to the legions of sulky stay-at-homes. General Grant taking the power which led multitudes to rejoice in a few small loaves and fishes, has [illegible] these patriots beyond the hope of present forgiveness. Let me therefore entreat them to go to the polls and there work and vote simply for the Constitutional Amendment securing impartial suffrage. They will thus proclaim that their personal disappointments have not affected their principles, and that their past professions of Republicanism were not insincere. They shall be [illegible] welcome to [illegible] me and still claim to be better Republicans than I am, if they will thus evince unabated devotion to the cause.

I congratulate you on the assured triumph of equal rights regardless of color in a future by no means remote. The general effect upon the South to this principle insures its success. There will be as there has been a great party through out the South which calls itself Conservative and stigmatizes its opponents as Radical, but the former claims to be as healthy and thoroughly for equal rights as the latter puts out red men in its tickets, and in every way manifests its faith by its works. Even though this position were reluctantly taken, I do not believe it insincerely held and I clearly see that it can in no case be abandoned. Nor can a great national party base itself on equal rights in the South and on proscription and caste at the North. It will have to take a decided and unequivocal position in preparing for the next Presidential contest and that must be one which does not divest it of a hope of carrying a single State south of the Potomac. The line of battle of the advocates of a 'white man's government' is thus fatally broken, and their total discomfiture merely a question of time. It behooves us to take care that New York be not taught her duty to the humble and despised by South Carolina, but that she resumes her proper place in the van of the mighty host that strikes for justice, progress and universal liberty.

While slavery endured, the proscription of the blacks rested on a perfectly intelligible and logical foundation. It was deemed fit that the men who voted should be palpably distinguished from the men who were sold at auction. The reason having vanished, the proscription remains only as a tree cut off and stuck in the ground may serve as a party standard or rallying post long after its vitality has departed; but all know that its days are numbered, and that it must soon fall of its own weight if not quietly taken down, which is safest and best. All intelligent Democrats know and in conversation admit, that ours must inevitably become a land of equal rights and equal laws, but the party managers say to each other, 'We can carry two or three more elections —or at least this one—by crying down the blacks —the future must take care of itself.' And thus a great wrong is persisted in through the selfish arts and calculation of men who profoundly despise the prejudice whereby they nevertheless seek and hope to profit. They do this in the conviction that many voters who are no baser are a great deal more ignorant and stupid than themselves.

In the confident trust that the canvass on which we are now entering will be signalized by determined though quiet effort on the part of the friends of General Grant's wise, prudent and patriotic Administration, and that its result will shame the laggards and faint hearts who are never ready to put forth efforts except when they are not needed, I remain yours, gratefully,

HORACE GREELEY

NEW YORK Oct 9 1869

POLITICAL ITEMS

Asa Packer, the defeated Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, is worth twenty millions of dollars. He gave the Central Committee of his party $100 000 to assist in electing him, and only $2,000 to the widows and orphans of the men who perished in the Avondale mines. No wonder he was defeated by the working and middle classes. They felt they had done enough for misers.

The San Francisco Alta observes that the defeat of Pendleton in Ohio by such an unexpectedly large vote is another evidence of the rapid decline of that rather comfortable delusion which after the close of the war seized upon the minds of such large numbers of people, viz: that the national debt could be liquidated by giving another note for it. Mr Pendleton if not exactly the originator of this extremely curious financial problem by the persistency with which he advocated it and the ability which he displayed in glossing over the absurdities which it involved earned for himself the character at least of its wet nurse.

The recent judicial election in San Francisco was a remarkable tame affair. The Chronicle says of it: "At none of the polls were the usual accompaniments of election day visible—no callers of different tickets, no eager partisans with dollars to offer and no gratis advice men could be found anywhere. Money was decidedly scarce and prominent ward politicians, who by noon on previous election days had collected the material for a first class drunk, leaned against walls and slunk around corners miserably sober. They hung around most of the polling places and visited most of the different headquarters assiduously, until a late hour of the day, but they could make nothing. Votes were absolutely without value. No one seemed to care for a vote, and had it not been for [illegible] whisky sparingly applied, some of them would certainly have visited the city front with suicidal intentions. Not a 'drunk' was seen, not even a moderate or mild case of Democratic intoxication appeared until a late hour in the evening, and even then the average number of cases had not been entered at the city prison."

EVERYBODY IS NOW BUYING these days and it is just the time to get the Fall and Winter Styles. It is almost impossible to pass the splendid store of KOHN & FISHEL on First street without being drawn in by the attraction of those charming New Suits and the enormous piles of elegant clothing and fancy goods of every description and quality. They have, unquestionably the largest stock and best assortment of goods that can be found in the city of Portland. Messrs Kohn & Fishel buy their goods direct from New York and sell as cheap as the cheapest.

Use KANE'S IMPERIAL CONDENSED SOAP. It washes without rubbing. For sale by Allen & Lewis, Corbitt & McCleay, R. G. Sneath and all retailers.

THE EQUALIZER!
Treating Disease by Vacuum
DR. H. A. BODMAN

HAVING PURCHASED HADFIELD'S EQUALIZER and the Patent Right for Multnomah county, would respectfully inform his friends and the public generally that he is prepared to treat successfully those Chronic cases on whom all other means of cure have failed.

Having used this Instrument in connection with his former practice for about three months he is satisfied that it will accomplish all that is claimed for it in curing Chronic Disease. He does not believe in the system of advertising cases cured, but any number of such may be seen on record at his office, consisting principally of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Curvature of the Spine, Nervous Debility, Dyspepsia, Weak Chests, Asthma, Narrow Chests, Weak Lungs, Weak Backs, Weak Stiff and Rheumatic Limbs, Sciatica, Spasms, Epilepsy, Palsy, St. Vitus Dance, Prolapsus Uteri, Obstructed Menstruation, with all their [illegible], Impotency and all kinds of weakness of the Generative Organs, Spermatorrhea [illegible] in from four to six weeks without medicine.

He uses other remedies when [illegible], but the Equalizer generally performs the cure without the aid of any medicines whatever. It brings a greater supply of blood and nutrition to all weak parts, thus giving new life and tone, and health, and strength in those parts. It breaks up congestion and inflammation by equalizing the circulation throughout every part of the system.

Give it a fair trial and you will be satisfied with the results. It has been examined by thousands of physicians of all Schools of Medicine, and there has not been one dissenting voice to the correctness of the principle, all acknowledge that it fills a vacuum in the Science of Medicine.

Out of the Tavern

Here I [illegible] out of the tavern [illegible] bright
Street, thou present'st a wonderful sight,
Right hand and left hand, now this side, now that Street, [illegible] — I see it, that's flat.

What a [illegible] countenance, moon, hast thou got!
[illegible] eye is open and one keeps he shut
[illegible] I see it [illegible] thou must be mellow—
Shame on thee, shame on thee, jolly old fellow

Spinning [illegible] and like the wheel of a mill
Dancing and prancing, to left and to right
Seems to [illegible] everything a tipsy to-night

All topsy turvy [illegible] little and great
Shall I go on and endanger my pate?
That were presuming. No, no, it is plain,
Better go back to the tavern again

Wouldn't be a Mormon

Never surely was there a vainer man ever born into this vale of tears than Jonas Crane, M. D., surnamed Bachelor Crane by the young ladies of the village of Wilton, in which he condescended to dwell. Whole hecatombs of fair ones had been sacrificed to his attractions, if you might take his word for it, and further hecatombs would be sacrificed in the future, if he but chose to give them the opportunity. He had but to look at any woman once or twice—to "eye her over," as "Simon Tappertit" used to say of the locksmith's pretty daughter in "Barnaby Rudge"—and forthwith she was harrassed as a victim at his triumphant chariot-wheels. No raillery, no disputing his evidence, could shake his faith on this point. It was "Veni, vidi, vici," wherever Jonas appeared, and the ladies must look to themselves in consequence!

Now, in face and figure, Jonas was not at all unlike the bird that was his namesake. His body was long, lean and withered, mounted on two ridiculous spindle-shanks, and surmounted by a small, narrow head, thatched with a scanty tuft or two of rusty brown hair. His eyes were small, green, and peering in their glances, his nose large, hooked, and of a deep crimson hue, for Jonas was no friend to the absurd new liquor laws, his nearly toothless mouth was like a wide gash or gap in the center of his face, and his chin sloped meekly backward, as if heartily ashamed of all that was above it. His neck was long and scraggy, his shoulders sloped, and his shoulder-blades stuck out, he had prominent knuckles and great red bony hands, knock knees, splay feet and an incurable stutter. And yet Jonas looked at himself fondly in the glass each day, and did not wonder at all that the ladies were dying on every side for love of attractions like these.

"Wait till leap-year, and you will see!" Jonas would say, when any of his male friends seemed to doubt the power of his fascinations. "I'll give the women a hint when the time comes, that they may speak!" And you'll see."

The gentlemen told the ladies of this boast as a mere matter of course, and equally as a matter of course the ladies were ready to tear Jonas into ten thousand pieces for his impertinence. They met in solemn conclave that very evening at the house of Widow Gray, a bright-eyed lady of thirty, whom Jonas believed to be more sorely smitten with him than all the rest. And when they separated, late at night, the widow's hearty laugh rang gayly on the air. "Good night, all!" she cried. "Wait till leap-year, and Mr. Jonas shall see!"

Leap-year came, in just two weeks, and the day passed on so quietly that Jonas was thunderstruck. No letters! no messages! no Widow Gray rushing headlong over to throw herself into his arms! What the mischief could it mean?

But at seven P. M. his troubles began. His housekeeper, coming in to clear away his supper tray, plumped suddenly down on her knees, held out her hands, and sniffled, "Oh, master, dear!" with an unutterable look at him.

"Get up, you old fool!" said Jonas.

The woman rose.

"It's all that minx of a Widow Gray!" quoth she. "There she is singing now. I've a great mind not to let her in. You'd better take me, Jonas. She won't mend your stockings half so well as I do."

"Leave the room!" shouted Jonas.

She obeyed. He snatched up a book, put himself into an attitude and waited for the widow.

"She's a pretty woman, and she's rich, I'll have her if she pleads very hard. And then I won't practice any more, I'm sick as a dog of it already," he thought as he tied his cravat and ran his fingers through his hair.

The door opened. In came the widow, her gray eyes all alive with fun. And she too went down on her knees before him, just as he had prophesied to those unbelieving men.

"Jonas," she said softly, "there are a great many of us who love you. We have talked it all over together, and we are all ready to do just as you say. It won't do to take one, you must take all. What do you say?"

She pushed open the door as she spoke, and disclosed to his horrified gaze a kneeling rank of women and girls, four abreast, reaching from the parlor door to the foot of the stairs, and then on again into the office which was positively crammed with suitors for his hand! His housekeeper—in the secret also—knelt in the front rank, and stretched out her hands to him, with an imploring look and a winning smile.

"Why—what—the—the—the mischief do you all mean?" yelled Jonas, appalled at the unexpected sight. "Are you all crazy? Or am I?"

"Oh, no, Jonas, dear," sighed the pretty widow. "It wouldn't do here, you know, but we are going to leave everything and follow you. We can go to Utah, you know—and Brigham Young."

"Brigham Young! Utah! Be a Mormon! And I am to take all you women! Oh, good gracious! let me get out of this!" screamed the affrighted Jonas.

And as the widow advanced to embrace him, he flung the window open and leaped wildly out. A cheer greeted him from a crowd of men outside, and Jonas ran like a deer for the station, where a train was just departing. He sold his practice the next week, and has never been seen in Wilton since.

While with sensible people there has never been need of an answer to the Democratic howl about President Grant taking an occasional journey for pleasure and health, the following remarks upon the subject by Henry Ward Beecher are so apt that we give them a place in our columns:

There has never, in any administration within memory, been so much executive efficiency as that shown by the present one, in settling reconstruction, in bringing the debauched revenue system back to health and in putting the national debt into a sound shape. Yet this, too, has been silently and unboastfully done. Thus, in succession, war, peace, reconstruction, financial reform, have followed each other. We hear no buzz. We see no chips flying from the lathe. We receive the accomplished results, clean and burnished, without being annoyed by the process of the shop.

When a man who has for eight years so served his country takes the hot and unwholesome months of summer to rest, it is a shame that citizens should need to be told that their great Aladdin needs vacation, or that excuses or explanations should be anxiously pleaded.

It would be better for them, and better for the country if our public men had more rest. They do not live out their days.

We have always admired that quiet independence of Gen. Grant, which led him to do what he thought was right without asking leave. He has taken his summer vacation and we hope he has enjoyed himself. No man on this continent has a better right to. Now, may heaven spare his life to show people that business may be performed without cackling and crowing.

THE LAW ON BREECHES.—Mrs. Agnes Matthews of Cincinnati, a reputable lady, but given to a love of pantaloons, recently bedecked her person in that masculine attire and promenaded the streets. The police arrested her for violating an ordinance which was thought to secure to man the exclusive right to use that garment. The lady was taken before Police Justice Straub, and he decided that, as there is nothing in the Constitution of the United States or of the State of Ohio to prevent a woman from wearing just what she pleases. Mrs. Matthews had not offended, and she was set at liberty.

The Northern Railroad Convention

From a letter published in the New York [illegible] of October 11th we are enabled to obtain a fair idea of the objects and results of the Northern Railroad Convention recently held at Oswego, New York. We present some paragraphs from the letter:

The route of the new independent line of railroad from Portland, Maine to Chicago has already been determined and charters have been granted, and the work is now in progress of construction over a greater portion of the distance with the exception of that part between Whitehall and Oswego. Between those two points a road is already in operation from Whitehall to Saratoga, but it is desirable to have a shorter route, one that shall not run so far south as Saratoga, and perhaps not so far north as Whitehall. With this view the Committee is authorized to organize a company to build a road by the shortest route practicable from any point they may select in the eastern part of the State of New York to this city. The point selected will probably be a few miles south of Whitehall, whence the road will run past the southern point of Lake George, and so on as nearly a straight line as possible to Oswego. From Oswego to the Niagara river at Lewiston the Ontario Lake Shore Road, already under way with Hon. Gerrit Smith as President, will form the next connecting link. From the Niagara River, across the Province of Ontario to the St. Clair river or to Detroit the line will probably run the greater portion of the distance over the road now being built by William A. Thompson of Queenston, who stated to the convention that his road would run on an air line, through a perfectly level country, that it would have steel rail and white oak ties with eighteen inches of gravel under the ties the whole distance, and that he intended to run cars regularly over the road in four hours—a distance of two hundred and ten miles. From the St. Clair river another air line is already projected to Chicago, and $2,000,000 have been subscribed by the towns along the line. The eastern end of the line from Whitehall to Portland, by way of Rutland, Woodstock, White River Junction and Bristol is secure beyond peradventure, a large portion of it being already built or in progress.

WHAT THEN?—THE AMBITION OF PORTLAND.

When the independent line is thus completed through from Portland to Chicago, which it is believed can be done easily within three years, Portland will be as near the Queen City of the West as either New York or Boston. The actual number of miles will be about the same, but the additional speed gained by a straighter road will, it is claimed, enable the independent line to make the distance from Chicago to Portland in less time than it is now made to New York or Boston. As Portland lies some 400 miles nearer Europe than New York, and 100 miles nearer than Boston, she claims that the shipment of the products of the Great West, and of the Pacific coast, to Europe, must eventually be made from her harbor. The emigration from Europe to the Great West and the Pacific must also, she claims, come through the same channel, for passengers crossing the Atlantic by steamer or sailing vessel will invariably quit water for land travel at the earliest opportunity, especially when, as in this case, they can reach their objective point much sooner by so doing. But, where is the return freight to come from? A city, even though it have an unrivalled harbor like that of Portland, in order to become a great shipping port must furnish freight both ways. What, besides our grants, can Portland bring back in the bottoms that carry out the products of the great West? Lo! even here is she also prepared for the emergency. She looks to Chicago. In her visions of the future she sees that city the great importing centre of the continent. Surrounded as she will be before the close of this century with the bulk of the thrifty and enterprising population of the United States, are her merchants to continue to get their European goods from the importers of New York and Boston? By no means. Chicago will import for herself direct from Europe and from Asia, and will supply the whole region of the upper Mississippi Valley eastward to Lake Erie and westward to the Rocky Mountains. And her importations from Europe will all come by way of Portland. Thus, while New York and Boston have been spending their money to build railroads in the West and overland to the Pacific, in the vain hope that the business of the entire continent was to be brought to their doors, they have all the while been cutting their own noses off and supplying Chicago and Portland with those useful and ornamental appendages.

But this is not all of Portland's ambition. She expects not only to secure for herself the carrying trade between Europe and the Great West and the Pacific coast, but also between Asia and Europe. One of the chief objects borne in mind by Portland in this trans continental convention was its connection with the overland traffic between Asia and Europe, which she also claims is to pass through her harbor. It was hinted at plainly enough in the circular calling the convention together, but occupied a small place in its discussions for the reason, stated in my previous letter, that it was plain to be seen from a glance at the map that the route which that traffic would take was not going to pass through any State except Maine represented in the convention. Nevertheless, it is not the least important feature in the programme of Portland's aspirations, and, if she is correct in her data, not the least likely to be realised. By making her connection with the Northern Pacific Railroad through Canada, Portland would be brought from 500 to 700 miles nearer the Pacific coast than she is by the Central and Union Pacific roads, and at least three hundred miles nearer than any connection which New York can make with the Northern Pacific Road. The chief cities of China are from 500 to 800 miles nearer Puget Sound, the proposed western terminus of the Northern Pacific Road than San Francisco, and since vessels coming from China to San Francisco first make the American shore opposite Puget Sound, and then run down the coast it will be seen that the traffic with China by way of Puget Sound and the Northern Pacific Railroad will effect a saving of 1,500 miles or more of ocean navigation over the route via San Francisco. Thus Europe will be brought from 2,000 to 2,500 miles nearer China by way of the Northern Pacific Road and its extension to Portland through Canada than she is or can be by any existing route.

GOOD FOR THE SCHOOLBOYS.—The San Francisco Alta of the 13th says:

A lady of this city has just invented a useful little affair which the schoolboys will appreciate when they use it. The article is a compact, broad strap, for confining a package of school books, the strap being carried by a smooth, leathern handle, like that of a shawl strap. It has on one side a small pocket, with subdivisions, for pencils, and is so provided with smaller straps that it can be adjusted to large or small packages, without being at all cumbrous or complicated. The invention will enable parents to provide children with book straps convenient as a knapsack, tight as a common strap and at a cheap cost.

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent heretofore considered the best in use.
